Nepal must recognize tourism as national priority

Tourism entrepreneurs, who were looking forward to enjoying special privileges following the government's decision to recognize tourism sector as a national priority industry, are disappointed as the process of giving special status to the sector has not begun even after six months of making a formal announcement in this regard.

The Council of Ministers, in the first week of May, had approved the proposal of a high level committee formed under the coordination of the then Secretary of Prime Minister's Office Lila Mani Poudyal to enlist tourism as a national priority industry.
